

THE SUMPTER MINER.

Some Kind Words for the Paper from Exchanges.

The Republican is in receipt of the initial number of the Sumpter Miner, a journal just launched on the sea of journalism in the coming mining town of eastern Oregon, by Messrs. C. H. Marsh and J. W. Connella. The paper is a 4-column quarto and is a model of typographical neatness and is well arranged and ably edited.—Union Republican.

The prosperity of Sumpter is attested by the founding of a new paper there called the Sumpter Miner. It is a neat publication; it shows evidence of journalistic ability and typographical skill, and it starts out with a good patronage. The Miner gives promise of being of great value to the town in which it is published and the Statesman hopes it will achieve the success it deserves.—Idaho Statesman.

The Sumpter Miner, a new weekly paper, is at hand and shows that it is run by old hands at the business. It is a 4-column, 8-page journal, printed on book paper and gives all the news of the town and district. Messrs. C. H. Marsh and J. W. Connella are the publishers, and have our best wishes for the success they are sure to make of this latest venture in the Sumpter news field.—Cove Ledger.

We have always considered the Blue Mountain American one of our most valued exchanges and now we find upon our table another Sumpter paper which is a model of neatness and full of news. We refer to the Sumpter Miner, a weekly paper which began publication last Wednesday. It is an 8-page, 4-column paper, and as neatly gotten up as any newspaper we have seen for some time. Should the number of advertisements increase in proportion to the way they start out, the Miner has undoubtedly struck a Klondike, or a Sumpter, which are synonymous. The Chronicle greets the new paper fraternally and will gladly place it on our exchange list.—The Dalles Chronicle.

The Sumpter Miner is the name of the five sheet which has lately been started in that flourishing burg. The publishers are C. H. Marsh and J. W. Connella, who are evidently quite capable of placing before the public the advantages which Sumpter possesses over the rest of the world, and intend to do it in an attractive and interesting manner.—Spokane Stock Report.

The first issue of the Sumpter Miner, published by Marsh and Connella, has been received and its columns perused with interest. Editorially it shows ability and typographically it is neat. The Miner will certainly do good work in promoting the growth of Sumpter and in attracting capital for investment in the mines. The Democrat gladly welcomes the Miner into the journalistic field of Baker county and wishes it no end of prosperity.—Baker City Democrat.

The Globe has received the initial number of the Sumpter Miner, published at Sumpter, Oregon, by C. H. Marsh and J. W. Connella. Mr. Connella will be remembered as the founder of the Everett News, and also as one of the ablest newspaper men who ever made a track in Snohomish county. Judging from the Miner, Sumpter is a very promising camp, and with such a journal working in its interest, the outside world will soon be better posted on that region.—Marysville (Wash.) Globe.
